Dance/Movement Therapy and Aging and/or Dementia
Compiled 1996 by Lenore Hervey
Updated, 2000 by Lenore Hervey
Updated, 2007 by Heather Hill & Christine Hopkins
Updated 2015 by Robyn Cruz

Journal Articles and Chapters from Books

The effect of passive listening versus active observation of music and dance performances on memory recognition and mild to moderate depression in cognitively impaired older adults. Psychological Reports, 111(2), 413-423. doi:10.2466/10.02.13.PR0.111.5.413-423

Books

Theses and Dissertations

Marshall, L. (1997). We've gone to another country: An inquiry into therapeutic meaning within a dance/movement therapy group for elders with dementia. (Unpublished master’s thesis). Antioch NE Graduate School, Keene, NH.

Conference Proceedings

Related Resources for Aging and Dementia

